WILSON'S CABINET TAKING SHAPE SUFFRAGETTES MARCH IN LONG PROCESSION DOWN PENNSYLVANIA AVE.

CAPITAL A BLAZE OF GLORY

President-elect Arrives and Is Ready for Greatest Moment of His Life

(Associated Press Cable.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—It is reliably reported here that the Wilson cabinet, as now taking shape, will include Lindley M. Garrison, vice-chancellor of Princeton College, and a noted Wilson man, for secretary of war, Albert Burleson of Texas for postmaster-general, Franklin K. Lane, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, for secretary of the interior.

ENTHUSIASTIC CROWDS GREET NEW CHIEFTAIN

(Associated Press Cable.)
WASHINGTON, March 3.—Washington awoke today to the realization that months of preparation for the greatest of all inaugurations have at last brought the "big day" but twenty-four hours away. The arrival of the president to be, accompanied by hundreds of Princeton students, in a double special train aided the man on the streets and the woman at home to realize that tomorrow is "March 4, Wilson's Day."

For weeks the committee on arrangements have been predicting that the greatest crowd in the history of the country will be present to see Wilson take the oath of office tomorrow, and there is every reason to suppose that the predictions will be outdone by the fact. Already there is hardly breathing space in the city for the swarms of folk from all over the world the trains are pouring into the city from all directions. The hotels are full. The boarding and lodging houses are full. Private houses are filled with guests. The nearby suburbs are filled with guests. Across the river at Alexandria, Virginia, the little old town seems almost alarmed, so full of strange life have its grass-grown streets become.

The city has completed its plans for welcoming the new president and vice president. The street decorations are the most ornate and beautiful ever seen here. Nothing has been spared in the way of money or work to make of the event one that shall by common consent eclipse all former events of its kind.

This is the only way the committee could think of to meet the president-elect's wishes for a simple ceremony, while making of his inauguration the biggest affair of the last five decades. The actual administration of the oath will be accompanied by few ceremonies, but the celebration that will come after and the parade that will precede it will outclass everything else ever seen here.

HAWAIIAN COMMERCIAL STRONG; OAHU FALLING

Business was active on the stock board this morning. Hawaiian Commercial in particular showing strength at the previous sale quotation of 35.12 1/2, at which three lots of 50 shares each, one of 40 and one of 5 shares, a total of 195, were sold in addition to 10 shares reported, while an eighth more is asked. Haku, in the only recess sale, made a jump of 6.50 points to 135 for 50 shares.

Oahu declined an eighth point to 19.75 for 5 shares, and Brewery one-quarter point to 22 for 50 shares. Other stocks remain unchanged, with sales of 150 Pineapple in three equal lots at 45.50, 10 McBryde at 4.15 Ewa at 25.75 and 25 Pioneer at 25. These are the asked prices excepting in the case of Ewa, which is held for 26.

INAUGURATION DAY HELD A HOLIDAY

Although tomorrow, being inauguration day, is declared a holiday in the District of Columbia, uncertainty reigned in the federal offices as to a holiday here. When the act was quoted, however, it was apparently decided that all federal offices will be closed. At the capital this morning the territorial officers denied that there would be any respite on their part. In honor of the day and asserted that the territorial offices will be open as usual.

SENATE ROW OVER POWERS OF MAYOR

First Real Fight of the Session Starts on S. B. 11 Restoring to His Honor the Authority Taken from Him by the Last Legislature—Rice Wants to Know Whether Measure Would Give Fern Right to Remove Present Office-Holders—Would Put Fate of Charlie Thurston in Hands of the City Executive, Declares Chillingworth—No Party Measure, Asserts Wirtz

SENATE Tenth Day

The first real forensic battle of the current session of the Territory's senate came suddenly this morning when Senate Bill No. 11, restoring to the mayor the appointive powers which were taken from him by the last legislature, bobbed up for the second time, on second reading.

The report of the special committee of Oahu Senators appointed the other day by President Kaunaloa, to handle the bill, proved favorable and was adopted by the senate, which later in the morning took up the passage of the bill on second reading. The senate had already put over the judiciary committee's banana claims bill until tomorrow, in order to give the solons an opportunity to study that measure.

There was a moment's pause when the president read the measure that the senate would take up the consideration of senate bill No. 11. Hardly had the clerk finished reading the title of the bill when Senator Rice started the scrap with a request for information regarding the effect the bill would have upon the present appointees of the board, and especially what effect it would have in cases of vacancies now existing or arising in the immediate future. He suggested that the bill be amended so as to make it effective at the end of the term of the present board and mayor.

Chillingworth, who has evidently gone deeply into the provisions of the measure, declared that the bill as it stands does what it aims to do, separate the legislative and executive functions of the city and county government. He said: "There are vacancies at present. To illustrate, the board has refused to approve the appointment of the mayor of a chief of the fire department. Charlie Thurston is but a holdover. Should this bill pass it would give the mayor the right to appoint whom he pleases. He might reappoint Thurston or some one else. That is not the point. The point is that we have now come to a stage where it is necessary to keep separate and distinct the legislative and executive functions of the city and county administration. In view

GRAND OPERA STARS ARRIVE; OPEN TONIGHT

'Rigoletto' Will Introduce Big Company to Honolulu Music-Lovers

The entire Lombardi Grand Opera Company, including Mme. Regina Vicarino, the coloratura soprano, who, it seems, certain local prognosticators insisted would not be in Honolulu with the other big songbirds, arrived this morning on the Sierra. The artists were immediately driven to their various hotels, and are enjoying the comforts of their rooms this afternoon, preparatory to tonight's opening of the local grand opera season. All were in excellent spirits and health—happy to reach the shores of the Paradise of the Pacific after their long voyage.

Mme. Vicarino autographed at once to the Moana. Mme. Adaberto, Signors Martino Nicoletti, Agostini, and Mr. Fortune Gallo, business manager, and wife, registered at the Young Signor Folco and wife are at the Hawaiian. Mme. Blinche Hamilton Fox secured apartments at the Colonial. The orchestra and chorus members are quartered at the Blaisdell and the Majestic.

A few members of the company experienced a brief period of restlessness the first two days of the journey, but all reached Honolulu in excellent spirits, prepared to sing Verdi's Rigoletto tonight in a manner that should be memorable in the history of local theatrical events.

Ask $200,000 For Hawaii's Fair Exhibit

Two hundred thousand dollars for the exhibit which Hawaii will have at the World's Fair in San Francisco in 1915 is asked in a bill introduced by Senator Rice in the senate this morning. The bill also provides for a commission of five members, all residents of the territory, to be appointed by the governor upon the passage of the act. The commission, if the bill goes through, both houses as it reads now, will have the duties of collecting an agricultural, industrial, educational and aesthetic exhibit, the erection of a building in which to house the former, the care of both during the fair, and the proper disposition of the exhibit after the fair is over. The bill divides the total sum into three sections; 100,000 for the building, $30,000 for the installation of the exhibits, and $70,000 for maintenance. The measure passed the first reading in the senate this morning.

JAPAN'S PRINCE REPORTED ILL

(Associated Press Cable)
TOKIO, Japan, March 3.—Prince Takehito is reported critically ill of tuberculosis.

FISHER REJECTS HETCH HETCHY

(Associated Press Cable)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher today definitely rejected the Hetch Hetchy water project for San Francisco supply, declaring that congressional authorization is lacking.

STENOGRAPHERS WERE BADLY NEEDED TODAY

If there were any stenographers in Honolulu this morning between the hours of ten and twelve who were out of a job and willing to ply their pencils at government rates of remuneration, the fact was not known to the officials of Judge Robinson's department of the circuit court. After innumerable telephonic communications and after messengers had been sent to spread the glad tidings abroad it was found necessary to dismiss court for the day for lack of anyone competent to take down the proceedings. "If there are any stenographers in town today, I don't know of it, that's sure," remarked Judge Robinson, "and I guess that the only thing to do is to dismiss court for the time being."

From far-off Wakarusa, Indiana, news comes to the circuit court that notice in a divorce suit instigated by Emma Netro has been served on Samuel Netro.

SENTRY STABBED AT NAVAL STATION

Assault by Filipino Leads to 'Shoot if Necessary' Order by Admiral Cowles

Taken unawares by a desperate Filipino, armed with a long cutting knife, Private Adams of the marine corps, a sentry at the Pearl Harbor naval station, was seriously wounded last night in the discharge of duty. As the result of the assault, Admiral Cowles has issued an order that all sentries are to be armed with revolvers, so that in case of need they can defend themselves while maintaining law and order on the reservation.

Two sentries patrol the industrial section of the navy yard, one at the site of the coaling plant, and the other guarding the shops and other buildings already completed near the drydock site. It was on this latter beat that the trouble occurred.

Adams saw a man apparently trying to force an entrance to the tool-house, and challenging, stepped into the shadows to investigate. As the sentries heretofore have acted only as patrollers to warn off trespassers, he was armed only with a bayonet, hanging in its scabbard. When Adams approached, the man, who was recognized as a Filipino, drew a knife and aimed a savage cut at him. The marine threw up his arm to intercept the blow, and the knife descended on his hand, nearly severing three fingers. The Filipino then made his escape, while Adams, after giving chase, reported the incident, and was given first aid and then taken to the city for further medical attention.

"There will be no more cutting up of sentries," said Admiral Cowles this morning, in clipped sentences that boded ill for future evil-doers. "The marines will be armed with revolvers, and will be instructed to use them in case of need."

The thief made good his escape before he could be identified.

MR. WICKERSHAM TO BE MADE BETTER CLASS FILIPINOS WELCOME

A far better class of Filipino laborers and settlers are in future to migrate to the Hawaiian islands, following the extended business trip to the Philippines, now completed by Royal D. Mead, director of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association labor bureau, who returned today from the far east as a passenger in the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Shinyo Maru.

Mr. Mead has been away from the islands nearly six months. He toured the Philippine group in the interest of labor and returns to Honolulu with optimistic reports concerning the success of his mission.

"Business affairs in the Philippines at present are at a standstill awaiting Congressional action on the question of independence," said Mr. Mead this morning. "There is a diversity of opinion as to the effect of independence upon the welfare and progress of the islands, but the Americans and foreigners are almost unanimous in desiring that the present status continue."

"The Philippines have wonderful possibilities in an agricultural way. I believe that sugar can be produced there at a lower cost than in any other part of the world, and vast areas of sugar land are awaiting development. The copra industry is also in its infancy and capable of great expansion."

"The Calamba sugar estate near Manila is being rapidly brought under cultivation. This estate is owned by a San Francisco corporation and managed by Mr. Barkhausen, formerly of Pioneer Mill."

"Work at San Carlos, Negros, is progressing. The railroad line is practically all graded and some of the important bridges nearly completed; the wharf is being extended to deep water to receive large steamers. The planters under the central seem to be favorably disposed toward the enterprise

Plans for the reception of George Woodward Wickersham, attorney-general in President Taft's cabinet and as distinguished a visitor as has passed through the crossroads in a long time, are already being laid, and indications are that he will have no reason to criticize the hospitality of Honolulu. Wickersham retires tomorrow.

According to information received by U. S. District Attorney Breckons, the Wickersham party will leave San Francisco March 15, their itinerary taking in a tour of the world. Just how long they will stay in Honolulu remains to be seen, but it is assured that every effort will be made to keep them here as long as possible. Breckons will take immediate charge of the distinguished guests, while Territorial Secretary E. A. Mott-Smith will also head a reception committee with plans mapped out for their entertainment. If the attorney-general's stay is limited, automobile trips around the island, a visit to Pali and Tantalus, and other excursions that will afford some idea of the beauty away with in all probability, inasmuch as sunshine, will be taken. He will be extended the hospitality of the var-

and are eagerly awaiting the construction of the central. The San Carlos district contains very rich sugar land and the cane I saw there looked very well. With modern methods of cultivation, the present production should be very greatly increased. "Filipino emigration seems to be assured under existing conditions. The class of people we are getting is improving all the time, and under the strict medical examination enforced before departure there is ample safeguard against the importation of disease."

WOMEN IN MAMMOTH SHOW

Thousands Participate in Long
Parade to Emphasize Demand for Votes

(Associated Press Cable.)
WASHINGTON, March 3.—Scores upon scores of shouting thousands watched the greatest parade of women, marching for the right to vote that this country has ever seen. It was "suffrage day" in the capital and mighty few there were who did not struggle to get into the front ranks of those who lined Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the white steps of the capitol building.

Not a single hitch came to mar the perfection of the arrangements of the women committees. And of all thousands in line no one struggled and none failed to carry the banner of their cause. The sight of the fluttering, dancing flags, the bright dresses of the women marchers, with the more somber costumes of the many men in the procession made a sight that will live long in the memory of the Washingtonians and visitors who saw the parade.

MONTHS OF PREPARATION COME TO CLIMAX

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—Months of preparation came to a climax today when the largest and most picturesque "suffrage parade" in the eye of inauguration, stirred the national capital to wide-eyed amazement. For it is the day of the march at the capitol and it is "suffrage day." Coming just before the inauguration of a president in whose election the women of several states played an important part the parade has great significance.

The suffrage demonstration took the form of a grand, allegorical procession and pageant, in fairness Pennsylvania avenue, a part of the week's inaugural festivities. It is estimated that at least 5000 men and women from all parts of the country and particularly from the ten suffrage states, are taking part in the procession and mass meeting to follow. General Jones Leads Army.

"General" Rosalie Jones, who led the recent "Albany or Bust" army of women to the New York capitol, led a similar pilgrimage from New York to Washington, coming the entire distance on foot, accompanied by other women from Philadelphia, Baltimore and other places en route. Many meetings were held along the way in order to instruct the farmers and their wives in the movement, and, as the official announcement says, "the pilgrims are to carry staffs and dress like marchers going to a shrine."

"Society women of Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore have been at work on the plans for the procession," says the publicity woman. "and wives of senators, representatives, army and navy officers and financiers were at headquarters every day doing some routine work and giving out literature. Miss Alice Paul, member of a fashionable Philadelphia family, is in active charge, and among the marchers were Mrs. La Follette, wife of Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin; Miss Florence Wilson, daughter of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson; Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, wife of Dr. Wiley, the pure food expert; Mrs. William Kent, wife of Representative Kent, of California; Miss Elsie Hill, daughter of Representative Hill, of Connecticut, and other prominent women."

Prominent Leaders to March
Among the prominent leaders in the movement are Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Suffrage Association; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, who has just returned from a twenty months' tour, during which she started a suffrage
